"Effective immediately, the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) is adding all of Connecticut to the list of regulated areas for the emerald ash borer (EAB). APHIS is taking this action in response to the detection of EAB in Fairfield, Hartford, Litchfield, Middlesex, New Haven, and New London Counties.

To prevent the spread of EAB to other states, the attached Federal Order outlines specific conditions for the interstate movement of EAB-regulated articles from the quarantined areas in Connecticut. Specifically, the interstate movement of EAB-host wood and wood products from the quarantined areas in Connecticut is regulated, including firewood of all hardwood species, nursery stock, green lumber, waste, compost, and chips of ash species."

For the complete APHIS article, click here.

If you suspect you may have EAB in your ash trees call 1-203-974-8474 or email CAES.StateEntomologist@ct.gov

Appearance: Glechoma hederacea is a perennial, evergreen and aromatic plant in the mint family. Plants can reach a height of 1 ft.

Foliage: Leaves are opposite, heart shaped, 2-3cm wide, petiolate and scalloped.

Flowers: Flowering occurs March to July when tubular, lavender flowers appear in the axils of the leaves. Flowers can come in clusters of two or more.

Fruit: Fruits are egg shaped, brown, and 1 mm long.

Ecological Threat: Glechoma hederacea is native to Eurasia and was introduced into North America, as an ornamental or medicinal plant, as early as the 1800s. It is common in moist areas, disturbed sites, low woods, lawns and along roadsides.

Committee Update

One of the short term goals of CNLA is to develop more involvement from our landscaper members. Our president, Darryl Newman, along with Directors Bob St. Jacques and Bob Blundon, are reinstating a committee made up of landscapers with the charge of developing more programs and services geared to those members' and their staff.

If you have an interest in serving on the committee please contact the CNLA Executive Office: 800-562-0610 or info@cnla.biz

SAVE THE DATE

The Connecticut Nursery and Landscape Association will be hosting the 2015 Summer Field Day at Bartlett Arboretum in Stamford, CT.

Mark your calendars for Wednesday, July 15, 2015!
More information to follow.

We hope to see you there!
