After renewing your membership, please take a moment to review your company's current employees.

Return to your profile page, then select Organizations

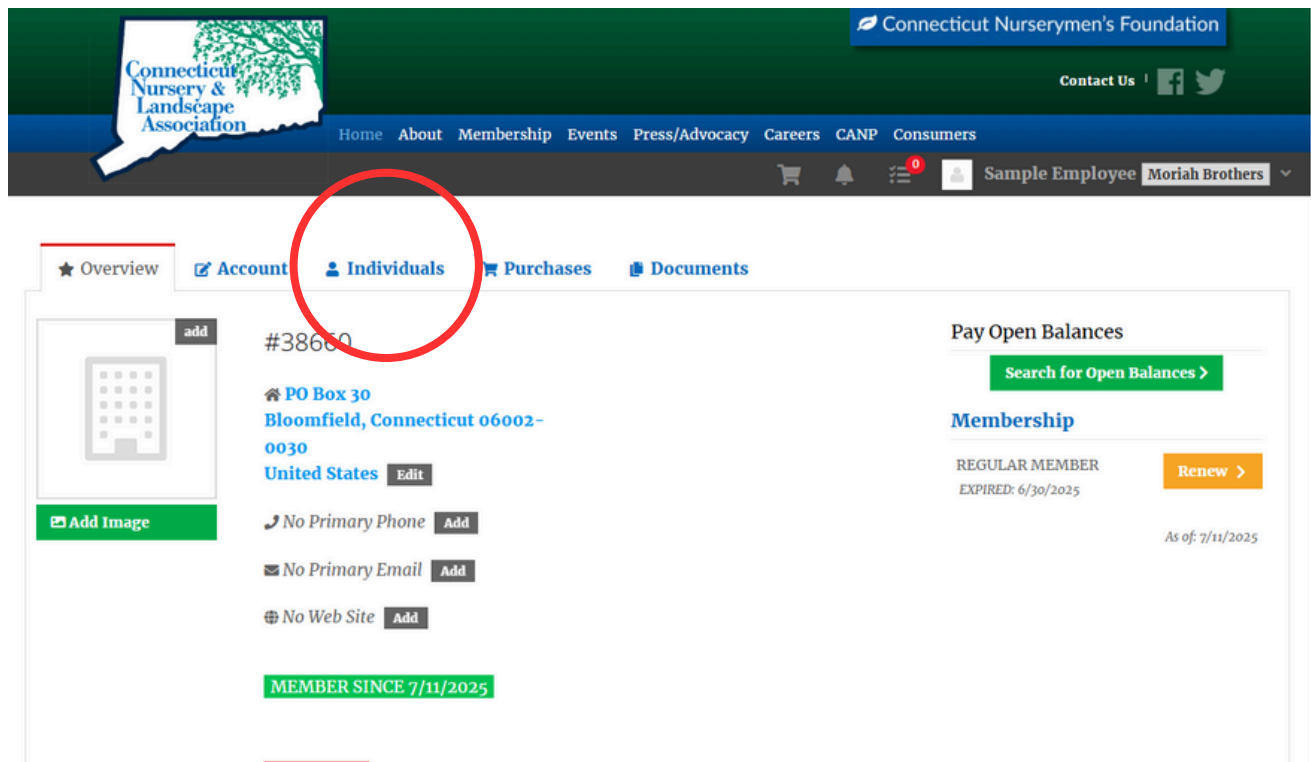

The screenshot shows the website of the Connecticut Nurserymen's Foundation. The user is logged in as 'Sample Employee' with the name 'Moriah Brothers'. The navigation bar includes links for Home, About, Membership, Events, Press/Advocacy, Careers, CANP, and Consumers. Below the navigation bar, the user's profile is displayed with tabs for Overview, Account, Organizations (circled in red), Purchases, Requests, Tasks, and Documents. The Organizations tab shows a company profile for 'Sample Company' with details like address, phone, and membership status. A red circle highlights the 'Organizations' tab.

Then select Manage. You will be taken to the Company Profile.

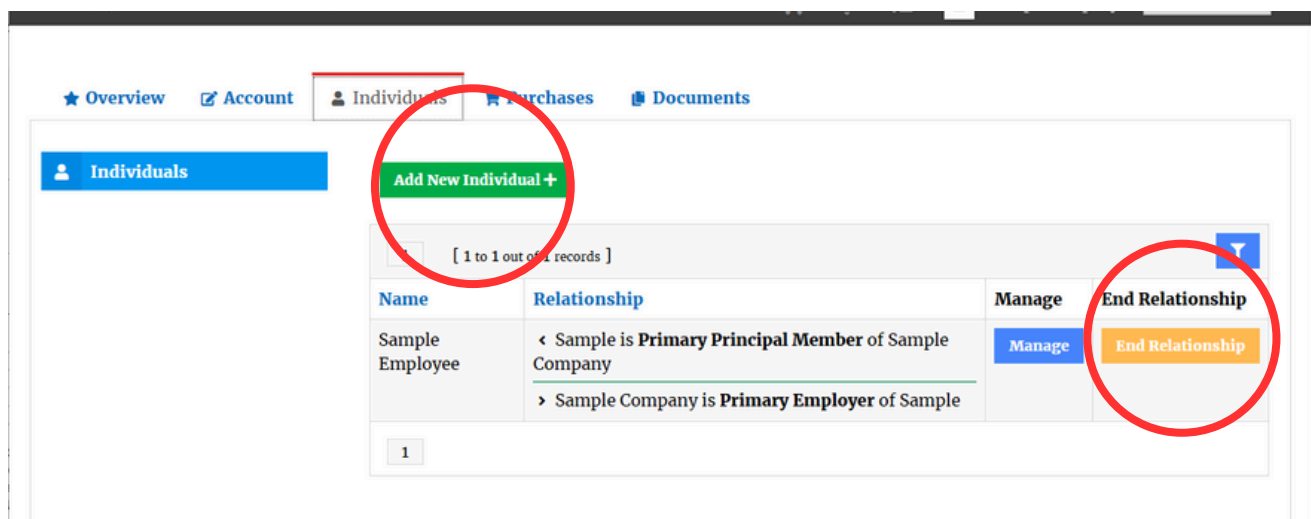

If the Manage option is not available, please contact the CNLA office to be given appropriate permissions to manage your company's members.

The screenshot shows the 'Organizations' tab selected. It displays a table with one record for 'Sample Company'. The table has columns for Name, Relationship, Relationship Start Date, and Manage. The 'Manage' button is circled in red. The table content is as follows:

Name	Relationship	Relationship Start Date	Manage
Sample Company Primary	< Sample Company is Primary Employer of Sample > Sample is Primary Principal Member of Sample Company	Edit	Manage

Once you are on the company profile, select Individuals.

From here you can add new individuals or end relationships with current individuals.

Please Note:

Dues automatically include a voluntary $50 contribution to CNLA's advocacy efforts on your behalf. If you do not want the contribution included, please contact the CNLA office.

Payments to the CNLA may be tax deductible as business expenses, not as charitable expenses. 56% of your annual dues go to support CNLA's lobbying activities and are not deductible from your federal taxes.
